ILLINOIS ATTORNEY GENERAL

A Message from Attorney General Kwame Raoul

We can all probably agree that 2020 has been a year unlike any other. This year, my office has undertaken new and expanded efforts to protect Illinois consumers during the pandemic. From helping people identify and avoid scams – such as those related to alleged COVID-19 cures or treatments, or identity theft connected to unemployment insurance benefit scams – to addressing price gouging, the hardworking staff of the Attorney General’s office continues to provide information, services and resources to protect consumers during the pandemic. Although the 2020 holiday season will be different than in years past, I am again releasing my office’s annual Safe Shopping Guide to help anyone shopping for children avoid purchasing dangerous or recalled children’s products.

This year, the annual Safe Shopping Guide highlights 34 recalls issued by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission during 2020. Descriptions of the toys, furniture, children’s clothing and other children’s products are accompanied by photographs to make hazardous products easier to identify.

I am urging families to be aware of recalled toys with parts that can break off and become choking hazards, toys containing magnets that can be extremely dangerous if swallowed, and rocking seats and inclined infant sleepers that pose suffocation hazards. The guide also includes children’s clothing that does not meet flammability standards, poses strangulation hazards or contains levels of lead. Additionally, the guide highlights strollers that put children at risk of falling and children’s furniture that if not properly secured, can result in falls, entrapment or other injuries.

Even though recalled products should not be sold, families should ensure they do not have these recalled items in their homes, and avoid purchasing them through secondhand websites where they may still be available. If 2020 has taught us anything, it is the importance of taking steps to protect the health and wellness of our loved ones. I encourage parents, grandparents and guardians to proactively check the guide to avoid purchasing a recalled or unsafe children’s product.

If you have questions about products included in the guide, please call the Attorney General’s Product Recall Hotline at 1-888-414-7678 (TTY: 1-800-964-3013). Current and previous editions of the Safe Shopping Guide can be found at the Children’s Product Recall Guides page of the Attorney General’s website.

I wish all Illinois families a safe and healthy holiday season.

Herman Miller Nelson cabinets and dressers and Design Within Reach Lauki cabinets and dressers were sold in stores nationwide, online and through wholesale dealers from September 2010 through January 2020. The recalled dressers and cabinets are unstable and can tip over if not anchored to the wall, posing serious tip-over and entrapment hazards that can result in death or injuries to children.

Consumers should immediately stop using the recalled furniture if it is not properly anchored to the wall or placed it in an area that children cannot access. Contact Herman Miller by emailing recall_info@hermanmiller.com, or visit <https://www.hermanmiller.com/customer-service/recalls/nelson-dresser-cabinet-and-buffet-recall/> to receive a full refund with free pickup. For Design Within Reach Lauki products, visit https://www.dwr.com/recall-lauki?lang=en_US, or contact Herman Miller at 800-338-2107 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Central time Monday through Friday.

Costway Recalls Baby Strollers Due to Violation of Federal Stroller and Carriage Safety Standard; Fall, Entrapment and Strangulation Hazards on June 25, 2020.

The recall involves three models of double-strollers that violate federal standards for carriages and strollers. The strollers were sold at Costway.com and by Amazon from May 2016 through December 2019. A child’s torso can pass through the opening between the activity tray and the seat bottom, trapping the child’s head and posing entrapment and strangulation hazards. The location of the crotch restraint creates a large opening between the seat bottom and the restraint, posing a fall hazard to children.

Consumers should immediately stop using the recalled baby strollers, and contact Costway toll-free at 844-242-1885 from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. Central time Monday through Friday or by emailing recall@costway.com for more information refunds.

A Better You! Recalls Belecoo Strollers Due to Violation of Federal Stroller and Carriage Safety Standards; and Fall, Entrapment and Strangulation hazards on July 2, 2020.

Belecoo 535-S convertible baby strollers violate federal standards for carriages and strollers. The strollers, sold exclusively by Amazon from January 2019 through March 2020, were available in black, pink, blue, khaki and gray and convert into carriages in the bassinet position. A child’s torso can pass through the opening between the activity tray and the seat bottom, trapping the child’s head and posing strangulation hazards. Additionally, the location of the crotch restraint creates a large opening between the seat bottom and the restraint, and it can become detached, posing a fall hazard to children.

Consumers should immediately stop using the recalled baby stroller, and contact A Better You! for instructions on how to receive a full refund, including taxes and original shipping costs. Call A Better You! at 800-715-7302, or email belecoorecall@gmail.com for more information.
